

c 502 BC

Darius I's spring capital, Persepolis, may have been created by Greek architects and sculptors (this is disputed).

Susa, the winter capital and administrative center - Darius employed skilled craftsmen from a wide range of peoples - including the Greeks